

Long Time Coming

Why do you say yes when you mean no
Why do you stay when you know you should go
I've been there before and I've told you so
This has been a long time coming

Why do you fear this road you take
Who do you blame for the bed you make
Did you realize what was at stake
This has been a long time coming

You don't have to bite the bullet
You don't have to claim self sacrifice
You're the only one keeping score
There's no lifelong obligation
In a no win situation
You won't be blamed for wanting more

Can't you see it's been too long
Nothing but ashes the fire's gone
No one to charge no right or wrong
This has been a long time coming

When you get off that crazy train
Will you even remember your name
Do you recall your own dreams or
Are they just distant memories yeah
Life can have a funky twist
Just know when to not insist
Know when to keep a good grip
And when to just let go...

The years that pass hang on your face
Are you starting to think it was just a waste
Just cut the string it's an act of grace
This has been a long time coming
